INTERESTING CLIPPING

Received a clipping from an Australian paper the other day that read:

LOTUSLAND. Papua, New Guinea is refining the Prime Minister's lotus-eating notion. Its Department of Agriculture is experimenting with the extraction of protein from hibiscus leaves.

The clip was submitted by Ray Goddard, 16 Winifred Ave., Epping, N.S.W. 2121, Australia. Mr. Goddard also asked for the name of a USA Seedsman who deals with Hybrid Epidendrum and/or Zygocactus seeds. Can any of our readers help him out?

new blooms and decide which are improvements over and different from existing ones. Seedling judges should recognize they are representatives of the Society and judge accordingly.

To the AHS the second function of the separate seedling class is more important. There is pleasure and satisfaction, for the novice and the experienced
